

Here are some websites that feature green and LEED Certified Schools to look into. The underlined blue texts are web links you can click on for more information.

US Dept of Energy's Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy Program have a database of High-Performance Buildings. The database provides detailed information on each project, including Finance, Land Use, Site & Water, Energy, etc. Of the 93 buildings listed, 5 are schools:

- Clackamas High School, Clackamas, OR
- Clearview Elementary School, Hanover, PA
- Durant Road Middle School, Raleigh, NC
- Third Creek Elementary, Statesville, NC
- Baca /Dlo'ay azhi Community School, Prewitt, NM
(EDI was the LEED AP on this project)
- High Performance Schools

The Illinois EPA and Waste Management Resource Center have developed an online resource for green schools that offers useful information for greening your school building, your curriculum and your community programs.

- Green Your School

The mission of the Collaborative of High Performance Schools (CHPS) is to facilitate the design of high performance schools: environments that are not only energy efficient, but also healthy, comfortable, well lit, and containing the amenities needed for a quality education. The website includes information on many of their school projects.

- CHPS \(Calif. High Performance Schools\)

Here are some examples of schools that have instituted green programs into their curricula:

Participation in SolarQuest allows students from around the world to take leads in a renewed effort to power the 21st Century with clean energy resources and reduce greenhouse gas emissions. It all starts by enrolling the SolarQuest curriculum and working toward the installation of a photovoltaic system in your school.

- Solar School Program

The St. Louis Teachers' Recycle Center, Inc. gathers creative materials from local business and industry that are landfill-bound and makes them available to teachers, parents and youth groups.

- Teacher's Recycle Program

The Grenada Upper Elementary Greenhouse has a greenhouse and series of programs that sponsor learning and community involvement.

- Greenhouse Program

In King County Elementary Schools, students can explore the links between habitat and natural resource consumption through a school-wide assembly show, hands-on classroom workshops and Green Teams that implement projects in the school or community.

- Green Teams